ents to hospitalized patients in 44 area hospitals.

Who uses blood? Accident victims; patients undergoing chemotherapy treatment for cancer and leukemia; orthopedic and open-heart surgery patients; burn victims and people with anemia; hemophilia or kidney diseases.

A steady supply of blood insures that blood is available to all who need it; and only blood donors can make that happen. If you're a healthy individual between the ages of 17 and 65, spend an hour to donate blood, and be a summer star.
