

AN OUTING AT WENONAH*Employees of a Philadelphia Firm Spend a Pleasant Day at the Popular New Jersey Town.

The annual outing of the office and store employes of the Partrick and Carter Company, at Wenonah, was one of the most pleasant gatherings of that character held at the popular New Jersey town this year. A large number of those who participated made the run on their bicycles, under the leadership of Captain Tom Townsend, the firm's traveling representative, who also distinguished himself in the ball game between the Partrick and Carter Company's employes and Wenonah, which resulted in favor of Wenonah by the score of 19 to 16. This game was a feature of the day's sport, and was greatly enjoyed by players and spectators.

After the game the members of the firm entertained their employes and Wenonah friends at Noblett's Hall, where an enjoyable luncheon was served. Charles M. Wilkins, a member of the firm, presided at the luncheon, and after making a few remarks, praising the faithfulness of their employes, he expressed his deep regret at the absence of his brother, E. Ward Wilkins, also a member of the firm, who had gone on a sea voyage, with the expectation of returning in time for the outing.

Captain Townsend, in a neat speech, presented two large photographs of the employes, which was a great surprise to Mr. Wilkins. W. W. Winship, of the company's city sales department, made himself useful in showing the visitors the beauties of Wenonah. Mr. Winship is a familiar figure in the town and well known by reason of the active part he took in securing for Wenonah's school one of THE TIMES prize pianos in the recent contest. J. D. Ferris and Eldorus Hurff, of the Wenonah contingent, were indefatigable in their efforts to make the ball game interesting for the visitors. How well they succeeded is shown by the score.

1896, An Outing at Wenonah

Clipped By:

bob_thomas_wk
Fri, May 15, 2020